

Invitation to Port of Melbourne's Industry Consultation 2022

Port of Melbourne regularly engages with port users and stakeholders. Our annual industry consultation is another opportunity for stakeholders to hear about our latest updates on projects, pricing and regulatory matters. It is important for Port of Melbourne to receive feedback from industry to help shape future decisions There are several ways to get involved (participation is welcome by any or all options below):

- Attend an online group forum;
- Meet with us for a one-on-one meeting;
- Provide a submission

Consultation Paper available now

To help guide discussions, a consultation paper has been developed.

The Consultation Paper outlines the specific topics we're seeking your input on and provides our current thinking that has been informed by early consultation with a number of representative stakeholders through December and January.

Online sessions

Our online group consultation sessions are being held at:

- 10:00 am to 11:30 am Tuesday 22 March; and
- 10:00 am to 11:30 am Friday 25 March.

To register, please click on the link above. A link to the meeting will be provided after RSVP.

Topics covered in the sessions will include:

- Industry and trade updates
- Capital investment program
- Topical issues around our regulatory environment

One on One meetings

If you are unable to attend either of the on-line sessions or wish to engage directly with PoM, we have also scheduled a 4-week period for on-on-one meetings. To book a one-on-one meeting, please email rts@portofmelbourne.com or call 0417 608 512. Rebecca McLellan will be coordinating the meetings with timings available between 11 March and 8 April 2022.

Prepare a Submission

We would appreciate your feedback on the topics raised on the Consultation Paper, or any other matter you wish to raise with us. Written responses are due by 8 April 2022. Submissions can be sent to our dedicated email rts@portofmelbourne.com.

If you have any questions, please contact Rebecca McLellan on 0417 608 512.
