

AIRPORT OPEN to ASSIST the FREIGHT INDUSTRY

Wellcamp Airport is a privately owned international airport and wants to proactively assist the Australian international and domestic freight industry during the COVID-19 crisis with the movement of “essential items” by air.

Whilst many passenger airlines services have ceased or are providing a significantly reduced schedule, there is still the opportunity for the movement of freight within the belly hold of passenger aircraft, freighter aircraft or chartered flights.

Wellcamp Airport is still operating during the crisis and strongly supports the FTA initiative to cooperate with industry through the COVID-19 Air Cargo Bulletin Board

As a privately owned airport Wellcamp management are willing to reduce the financial impact of aircraft landing fees and cargo terminal fees to assist in the commercial opportunity to move essential items by air for airlines, forwarders and charter brokers.

Wellcamp Airport can provide the following services now

- Ramp handling of most aircraft types
- Cargo handling (loose & unitised)
- Perishable cool rooms storage and packing
- ULD management
- Oversized cargo, dangerous goods and livestock
- Export cargo security screening (RACA)
- Road transport to final destinations in Australia
- Airline crew catering, transport & accommodation

The cargo facility at Wellcamp Airport is an approved 77G bonded customs and quarantine facility.

Wellcamp Airport have experience in handling all types and sizes of aircraft.

With the support of the FTA COVID-19 Air Cargo Bulletin Board and the wider cargo community, Wellcamp Airport is ready and willing to assist the Australian economy with the movement of all essential goods during the COVID-19 crisis.
