

Quotes from freight partners

Australia Post

Bob Black, Chief Operating Officer

"Western Sydney International will change how we develop our business. The ability to operate 24/7 will mean we can provide greater speed, flexibility and choice to our customers both here in Australia and around the world as eCommerce continues to boom.

"We're excited to be partnering with Western Sydney International on this world-class freighter hub that will increase our network capability and provide excellent opportunities for our business and our customers into the future."

DHL Express

Gary Edstein, CEO and Senior Vice President Oceania

"The development of Western Sydney International is a unique opportunity to contribute to the future of Australia's international trade and further enable the exporting power of Australian businesses.

"DHL Express is pleased to be part of this memorandum of understanding, and is committed to working with industry figures to assist in creating an efficient, world-class airfreight facility for the future."

DB Schenker

Johan Sandahl, Director Airfreight, Australia and New Zealand

"For more than 57 years, DB Schenker has been supporting trade and helping businesses grow with our cutting-edge logistics network in Australia and around the world.

"We are now delighted to join in this unique effort in taking part in discussions and collaborations with Western Sydney Airport in establishing Western Sydney International for the benefit of the enterprises and the residents of New South Wales."

DSV Air & Sea

Paul Thomson, Managing Director, Australia and New Zealand

"DSV Air & Sea is very pleased to be part of the logistics industry working group providing input to the design and flow of the airfreight services for the new Western Sydney International.

"The construction of a brand new airport precinct is a once in a lifetime opportunity for a major city and has the potential to redefine airfreight cargo movements throughout the larger Sydney area.

"This exciting project carries the industry expectation of ensuring considerations from passenger and freight movements to environmental and safety impacts achieve first class outcomes.

"Western Sydney International will without doubt work to improve Australia's competitiveness in destination services which have long been seen as expensive and antiquated. The signing of this Memorandum of Understanding signifies DSV Air & Sea's commitment to the growth and sustainability of Australia's International & Domestic Air Cargo Supply Chain."

FedEx Express

Peter Langley, Vice President Australasia

"FedEx Express is committed to initiatives that connect people and possibilities around the world.

"The development of the new Western Sydney International (Nancy-Bird Walton) Airport supports our mission to service the growing needs of our customers by ensuring they receive exceptional service."

Menzies Aviation

Beau Paine, Regional Vice President, Cargo, Australia

"Menzies Aviation offers aviation services in over 200 airports across 36 countries. Our Australian cargo business spans all of the major cities and we look forward to working with Western Sydney Airport on potential air freight opportunities.

"We see Western Sydney International as a fantastic freight opportunity to further promote Sydney, and wider NSW and ACT regions, to connect with global trade lanes."

Qantas Freight

Nick McGlynn, Chief Customer Officer

"The fact that Western Sydney International will be able to operate domestic and international freight services around the clock presents an enormous growth opportunity for the industry and is a clear win for consumers."

Skyroad Logistics

Peter Assel, Managing Director

"Skyroad Logistics understands the significant air cargo export and import potential of Western Sydney International.

"Sydney remains the hardest city in which to handle air cargo movements into and out of due to its infrastructure limitations, and Western Sydney International not only represents a solution for this but also a closer solution than current secondary feeder airports.

"Western Sydney International represents the next step in increasing air cargo capacity for Australia's biggest market, but it also provides opportunity to increase the market share of air cargo in the overall logistics stream, especially for highly sought after exports such as perishables."

Swissport

Peter Logan, General Manager Cargo (Australia & NZ)

"Swissport appreciates the extraordinary opportunity to collaborate with our industry partners to maximise the potential of the freight precinct at Western Sydney International."

"Together we will design and plan a world-class precinct which plays a critical role in the future of our region. Our global experience and insights will help inform a design for an efficient, accessible and strategically-planned cargo gateway."

Wymap

Justin Bailey, CEO

"Wymap Group is excited to join with other Aviation Logistics industry leaders, in partnering with Western Sydney International to build Australia's next airfreight gateway."
